Court Calculations and Accounting Support

Preparation, review and challenge of court calculations for law firms, companies and organisations, with validation technology and high-volume production.

Calculations that follow the judgment, one parameter at a time.

A correct court calculation applies exactly what the decision ordered: indices, interest, start dates, bases and deductions. SGEx prepares and reviews calculations with teams of accountants, economists and business administrators, supported by validation technology that allows us to handle anything from a single case to large portfolios, with technical accuracy in every calculation.

When clients call on SGEx

Quantification and enforcement of judgments that require determining amounts.

Review and challenge of calculations by the opposing party or the court's accounting office.

Updating debts, court deposits, court-ordered government payments (precatórios and RPVs).

Tax refunds, restitution and offsets.

Case portfolios of companies and organisations that require standardised, high-volume calculations, including for provisioning.

How SGEx works

Multidisciplinary team

Accountants, economists and business administrators, with technical review before each delivery.

Validation technology

Official index databases, automated routines and cross-checking of every parameter applied.

High-volume production

A standardised workflow for large volumes, with quality control and traceability per case.

Every calculation is delivered with workpapers showing the index, period and basis of each item.

What We Solve

Questions a court calculation answers.

Does the calculation follow the judgment?

Checking indices, interest, start dates and items against what was decided.

Which indices and rates apply in each period?

Applying the index and interest rate transitions set out in the decision and the law.

Is the other party's calculation correct?

Identifying every discrepancy, with its amount and technical basis.

What is the updated amount?

Updating awards, deposits and debts to the date of interest.

What does the portfolio represent?

High-volume calculations to estimate exposure, provisions and settlement offers.

What about ancillary amounts?

Determining attorney fees, penalties and court costs under the judgment and the applicable procedure.

How We Approach It

Steps applied to this type of engagement.

1	2	3	4
Judgment and parameters	Data and documents	Calculation and validation	Delivery
Reading the decision and recording each calculation parameter.	Collecting amounts, dates and supporting documents.	Processing with official indices and cross-checking.	Spreadsheet, calculation workpapers and explanatory technical note.

What we examine: judgments, appellate decisions and quantification rulings, calculations by the parties and the court's accounting office, proof of payment, deposits, statements and official index tables.

Deliverables: judgment quantification and enforcement calculations, technical challenge of calculations, debt updates, technical opinion, batch calculations for case portfolios and exposure reports.
